Democrats Find it Difficult to Secure Suitable Candidates.

The State Convention Organizes and Then Adjourns.

Delegates Take the Night to Discuss the Various Aspirants.

Hunting a Standard Bearer.

Special to the Gazette.

DENVER September 24 The democratic party in Colorado needs a Moses; in fact, needs several of them. But where it is to find a leader in the coming campaign is the leading topic in this city to night The democratic state convention met in Turner hall at 11 o'clock this morning, and the attendance is large, in fact the largest ever held The delegation from El Paso numbers 11 out of the 13 to which it is entitled, and this is a fair specimen of the attendance, as this delegation usually numbers about 5 out of 13.

Two caucuses were held to day, but the convention adjourned at 4 o'clock without having reached the head of nominations The distinguishing features of the day were stirring addresses delivered by Hon C. S Thomas and Hon Thos M Patterson. Both were masterpieces in their way, and contained the usual democratic arraignment of the various irregularities in our state government, which the republican party in its platform has already assured the people will be corrected

The convention reassembles at 10 a m. to morrow, but who the party will nominate cannot be foretold. When the delegates came to the city it was with the confident expectation that a pressure so strong would be brought to bear that either ex Governor Grant or ex Governor Adams would be prevailed upon to pick up the party standard. All hope of this was finally shattered to night. A caucus was held in the club room of the Windsor hotel this evening, attended by the chairmen of the various delegations, and did not adjourn until a late hour. Delegate Collier, of Las Animas, presided and committees were sent out to invite ex Governors Grant and Adams in. They came and were urged to allow their names to be used, but both positively declined, giving the most satisfactory private reasons why they would not consent. Friends of Rev. Myron Reed positively assured the caucus that he would not accept the nomination for the governorship, but were uninformed as to his acceptance of the nomination for congress

Among other available material discussed were Judge Ballard, of Larimer, Judge Yeaman, of Las Animas and Judge William Harrison, of El Paso. After that of Governor Grant the name most prominently discussed to day for the nomination of governor has been that of Harrison. The movement in his favor arose among the judge's friends in the mountain counties, and was a surprise to the El Paso delegates, but it has taken like wild fire, and he could have the nomination almost by acclamation. Judge Harrison today, however, telegraphed a member of the delegation that he would accept no place on the ticket.

Lafe Pence, of Arapahoe, seems to be the only available candidate, but the Arapahoe delegation is not united, and there seems to be considerable opposition to him. The candidate will probably be a man as yet unsuggested. In the absence of a head for the ticket there is little or no discussion regarding the other names to be placed upon it.

Democratic Convention

DENVER, September 24. The democratic state convention was called to order at Turner hall this morning by Hon C. S. Thomas, chairman of the state central committee.

Mr. Thomas said that in resigning the gavel of the state chairmanship he must thank the democrats of Colorado for their support to the ticket at the national election in 1888. The prospects at the present time were never more hopeful. It seemed to him that a review of the course of national and state elections for the past two years had developed a feeling for them.

He said. Two years ago the administration of Grover Cleveland expired, [Cheers]. He retired after making a record unsurpassed in the history of the republic. He it was who enabled the great democratic party to say the public credit, the public faith, had characterized every department of his administration. Out of the earnings of the people he put a surplus aside of almost $100,000,000. Where is that surplus now? [Cries of where? where?] His successor in office, upon taking the oath, is reported to have said· "God help that surplus now!" I have no time nor you the patience to listen to a long review of national affairs, but we do know that the party in power in Washington to day has not hesitated in the introduction and passage of laws aimed directly against the government. We go before the people, not upon the defensive but upon the offensive, and challenge the people. In state affairs we also surrendered the reins of government two years ago and the splendid, the irreproachable young governor from Pueblo [loud applause], when he stepped down from his high office could point back to a pure, a spotless administration. He was succeeded by one who claimed the highest majority ever given a candidate in Colorado. Where is that administration now? Who so poor to do it reverence? Who to champion it? Alas no one.

"Pete Breene," a voice shouted while laughter convulsed the convention.

In 1888, continued the speaker, the democratic party went before the people pledged with the accomplishment of certain measures We pledged not only our power but our candidate for the passage of a law by which the burden of taxation might be relieved. We demanded a system of railroad legislation which would grant equal justice to all, and we had something which bears the same relation to this state that the lottery does to Louisiana the fee system. We said this immense mass of fees should go to the treasury, and certain graded fees to the officials. We said we would experiment at least with what is known as the Australian ballot. The people to these promises turned a deaf ear. The republicans promised the same thing as we did, only in different words, and a republican legislature was chosen, and I desire to say that for an outrage upon humanity it stands without parallel. With the exception of the Imperial state of New York, it furnished more stationery than any other. It purchased furniture by the carload [illegible] after the legislature adjourned.

Now the people call upon them to explain the broken hopes and promises for years. We have a platform presented by our adversaries which is the same old song, without even a reference to the Seventh general assembly.

Mr. Thomas then read a statute regarding fees and the disposition of state funds, which it is proposed to introduce before the Eighth general assembly, criticising severely upon each. The proposed railroad law also failed to escape his caustic condemnation. The military poll tax law was arraigned in severest terms. "A tax to pay for holiday parades and ostrich feathers to decorate so called generals," as he expressed it. "Reform could only come from that great party, to which I and you both belong The immense mess of litigation, all of which tend to promote taxation, is the direct fruit of those means by which the democrats of Colorado have been kept out of power. It is to you that the hopes of the people of this state and its prosperity are attached At this time when the great mass of the people are praying for deliverance, I pray to God that at least one great leader of our democracy will come to our aid and lead us onward."

Jacob Filius, of Clear Creek county, was chosen temporary chairman. Committees on credentials, permanent organization, rules and order of business were appointed and recess taken to 2 o'clock

On being called to order at 2 45 the committee on credentials reported that as there were no contested delegations they recommended that all delegates bearing credentials be seated Adopted

Hon. Caldwell Yeoman, of Trinidad, was then chosen permanent chairman, and R. S King, of Lake county, secretary. It was then moved that a state central committee composed of one member from each county in the state be appointed Agreed to, and the committee appointed. Another resolution was adopted, that when any state committeeman leaves the county which he represents the chairman of the county central committee shall fill such vacancy

The convention then adjourned to-morrow at 10 o'clock for the purpose of giving the delegates an opportunity to agree upon candidates. There seems to be considerable difficulty in securing desirable candidates for any of the state offices.

The Pugilists in England

NEW YORK, September 24 The following special cable despatch was received at the Police Gazette office to-day: The arrangement for the international fight between Joe McAuliffe and Frank P. Slavin, for £1000, the Police Gazette championship belt and the championship of the world, will take place within two weeks. Crichton Temple, who is now blamed for the police interfering, did not want the men to battle for the purse, but Lord E. Gordon, Lord Lonsdale and Richard K Fox insisted that the purse should be offered, and also that should the police interfere when the men are in the ring, Slavin and McAuliffe shall each receive £500. Temple opposed this proposition, and said "it was useless to think of it." Richard K. Fox insisted that the amount mentioned should be paid. A long discussion followed, and finally Temple agreed to the American's proposition

It is understood that the gloves made in America will be slightly increased in size and that the pugilists will fight fifteen instead of thirty rounds It is the general opinion that the battle will not last that long, and should it not be decided at the end of the fifteenth round the referees, George Vizee and R. J. Angle, will probably order additional rounds.

The police claim that the information that caused them to arrest the pugilists was furnished by F. Crichton Temple Temple denies it and places the blame on the newspapers All bets on the fight are declared off, as there has been police interference with the fight, and the conditions that governed the original match have been changed Betting on the fight commenced at Tattersall's to-day and McAuliffe was the favorite. His fine condition and splendid physique were greatly admired at the Lambeth police court.

A Mormon Manifesto

SALT LAKE, Utah, September 24. The following manifesto will be published here to-morrow.

To Whom it May Concern:

Press despatches having been sent from Salt Lake City which have been widely published for political purposes, to the effect that the Utah commission in their recent report to the secretary of the interior allege that plural marriages are still being solemnized and that forty or more such marriages have been contracted in Utah since last June or during the past year, also that in public discourse the leaders of the church have taught, encouraged and urged the continuance of the practice of polygamy, I, therefore, as president of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, do hereby, in the most solemn manner, declare that the charges are false. We are not teaching polygamy or plural marriages, nor permitting any person to enter into its practice, and I deny that either forty or any other number of plural marriages have been solemnized in our temple or any other place in the territory. One case has been reported in which the parties alleged that the marriage was performed in the Endowment house in Salt Lake in the spring of 1889, but I have not been able to learn who performed the ceremony. Whatever was done in this matter was done without my knowledge. As one consequence of this alleged occurrence the Endowment house was by my instruction taken down without delay.

Inasmuch as laws have been effected by congress forbidding plural marriages, which laws have been pronounced constitutional by the court of last resort, I do hereby declare my intention to submit to those laws and use all my influence with the members of the church over which I preside to have them do likewise. There is nothing in my teaching to the church or in those of my associates during the time specified which can reasonably be construed to inculcate or encourage polygamy, and when any elder of the church has used language which appeared to convey such teachings he has been promptly reported, and I now publicly declare that my advice to the Latter Day Saints is to refrain contracting any marriage forbidden by the law of the land.

A DENVER STRIKE.

Difficulty at the Union Pacific Yards Reaches a Crisis.

One Hundred and Twenty-five Switchmen Quit Work.

New Men Secured and Cars Moved With Little Delay.

What Has Been Accomplished on the World's Fair.

U P. Switchmen Go Out.

DENVER, September 24 For several months the Union Pacific company at this point have been having serious trouble with their switchmen To avoid any complications the company used every fair means to adjust their difficulty and to have the service properly performed, but the situation has not improved, and the block in the yards has become a matter of such serious detriment to the commercial interests of Denver and Colorado that the company to day took the necessary action to reorganize their yard forces One of the chief difficulties has been the disposition on the part of switchmen to exact "tips" from shippers desiring switching done, and it has been proven that the switchmen have kept the yards in a blocked condition in order to enforce this. Several days ago the switchmen's grievance committee waited on General Manager Meek and made several serious charges against Assistant Superintendent Burns, who has charge of the yard, and demanded his removal or they would all go out. Burns was suspended pending an investigation.

The charges having been disproved, Mr. Meek this morning addressed a communication to his switchmen stating the facts, and also that "since Burns' removal there has been a large increase in the number of engines used to do the work, without a corresponding improvement in the yard situation, and the legitimate earning capacity of the Union Pacific at this point is being impaired to an inestimable extent by the failure on your part to render sufficient return in labor for the compensation given you For these reasons Mr. Burns will be reinstated at 12 o'clock noon to day. Switchmen who are unwilling to work cordially with Mr. Burns and to pledge their support and best efforts to the end of meeting every requirement of good service in the Denver yard and those who are unsatisfactory to the company will receive their time and quit the service of the company before or by that hour."

At 1 o'clock this afternoon, when the whistle blew for them to return to work, not one of the 125 men put in an appearance. The company very soon secured 30 men and had cars moving after a delay of but one hour. Mr Meek has given the strikers until tomorrow noon to determine what they will do, and it is probable a large number will return Should the men determine to stay out, the officials of the road do not anticipate that it will extend over the system. About 70 per cent of the entire business of Colorado passes through the Union Pacific yards at this point, and a block in the yards virtually affects the entire business community of Colorado, as well as the far west

Progress on the Fair.

CHICAGO, September 24. Since the close of the second session of the national commission of the World's Columbian exposition, the question in everybody's mind is What has been accomplished? As yet public opinion has been slow to grasp the magnitude of the undertaking which is to mark the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America. The strife between rival cities aspiring to the honor of being selected as the seat of the exposition naturally gave a local color to the enterprise, of which the public mind cannot immediately rid itself. As a natural consequence the necessary delays in starting the complicated machinery of this vast undertaking have given rise to invidious comments in which the local directory have been severely criticised Time and again the statements have appeared that Chicago had bitten off more than she can chew, and other criticisms based on a supposed inability of Chicago to carry the exposition to a successful issue have appeared Thus it happens that, after being in session fifteen days, the national commission have adjourned till November, the question naturally arises: "What has been done?" A summary of the work accomplished by the national commission and the local directory combined is, therefore, of interest at this time.

The act of congress defining the duties of the national commission and the directorate of the corporation known as the Columbian exposition laid upon them a dual duty, namely the providing of a site and raising of a fund of $10,000,000 A supervisory duty was entrusted to the national commission to see that the site selected was to the purposes of the exposition, and that the fund raised was bona fide and available.

The first of these duties, namely, that relating to the site, has been absolutely accomplished, and the second is as far advanced as the unavoidable delays of legislation would permit. The site tendered by the local directory and accepted by the national commission is such as no exposition ever possessed. The park system of Chicago comprises nearly [illegible] acres, distributed in the various additions of the city, north, west and south. Of these parks, the local directors have had the choice of 1300 acres on the west side and 1000 acres on the south side. The latter has been chosen for reasons which commend themselves to every one familiar with the topography of Chicago. Easier of access from the city than either the North or West parks, the South park was decidedly the favorite from the moment when it became a question of choice. Landscape gardening had been carried out to a greater degree of perfection in that portion of the park system than in any other. The great advantage of being adjacent to the lake was a further consideration which impelled the directors to this choice. The statement which has gained wide circulation that the site chosen is a divided one, and that half of the [illegible] would be held in one part of the city and the other half relegated to a distant section, to which access was difficult, is an erroneous one

The site question as finally settled is as follows. Jackson park, Midway Plaisance and Washington park, all practically one park, divided only in name, and covering altogether 1000 acres, will hold the great exposition At the [illegible] Front a grand roadway, leading to the terminus to the railway which will carry people to the fair, will be [illegible] this gateway will be a [illegible] building where minor exhibits will be located. But for practical purposes the exposition will be located in one block at the South parks

It only now remains for the city of Chicago to go through the formality of voting aid to the exposition, the $5 000,000 of bonds pledged This will be done at the election already ordered to be held in November. The president of the United States will then be notified by the commission that every requirement of the law has been fully carried out, and by Christmas the official proclamation inviting the nations of the world to take part in the exposition will have been promulgated

German Catholic Congress

PITTSBURG, September 24 German Catholics held a meeting this morning At the last congress in Coblentz it was suggested that all German Catholic societies throughout the United States be gathered in one great strong national patriotic band In accordance with this suggestion the following was adopted

In view of the proceedings at the German Catholic congress in Coblentz, Germany, with the conviction that a well defined organization of the German Catholic youth in the United States would be not only a means to foster religion and morality, but a necessity to oppose the heresy of many people,

Resolved, That it is the wish of this congress that in every German Catholic parish in this country, young men's societies be founded for such aims as will be best for local needs, that in German Catholic centers of the United States centralization of such local societies be effected, under such regulations as will suit the surroundings and circumstances, that the central organization, which does already exist in Chicago, be offered the thanks of this congress for its zealous work, and that its constitution be recommended as an example to be emulated.

The Price of Silver.

NEW YORK, September 24.—The Post says: The understanding that the treasury would be out of the market as a buyer of silver during the next week to October 1, probably had something to do with the lower prices for silver certificates to day, but possibly it is also getting into the minds of a good many people that it will be difficult to advance the price of silver by means of the treasury purchases of 4,500,000 ounces per month and more difficult to maintain the price if it is advanced by that means. But we are certainly accumulating a large stock of silver in this country. Exports, too, to a considerable extent, keep up, but their volume has been diminished as compared with previous years.

Illinois Central Condition.

NEW YORK September 24 A little less than three weeks ago all the New York morning papers had sensational reports regarding a reported rebellion of the stockholders of the Illinois Central against the management, and in that connection it was claimed that the Illinois Central was on the verge of bankruptcy. The annual report for the year to June 30th, now out, shows that the company had earned its dividend of six per cent and a small surplus beside This kind of bankruptcy would ruin a bear on the stock market.

Union Pacific Earnings.

WASHINGTON, September 24 The report of the government inspection of the Union Pacific railway was submitted to the secretary of the interior to-day. It shows that since the last report the condition of business throughout the entire Union Pacific system has improved. While the increase of the gross earnings during the year 1889 over 1888 was only $[illegible]74,669, the increase during the six months ending June 30, over the same period of 1889, was $8,295,027.

The Denver Republican gives it out very cold that the gang smashers will not consent to any compromise with the gang. It adds: "This is official, final and irrevocable."

The News a few days ago said that Mr. Eaton was nominated as the result of a deal with the gang. This is a gross mistake. There was no trade made with any delegation or any faction in the convention to secure the nomination of Mr. Eaton. He stood on his merits as a candidate and the delegates to the convention were asked to vote for him on that alone. When it was threatened that he would not be nominated unless he promised to do certain things, he absolutely declined to make any pledges whatever. If ever a man was nominated to a public office in this state unpledged, except to be an honest, efficient officer, Mr. Eaton was that man.

The Denver News has the following notice of "Colorado College Studies:"

The attention of the public in general, and particularly of those interested in higher education, is called to a recent pamphlet entitled "Colorado College Studies," published in Colorado Springs. The professors of Colorado college organized last winter a scientific society with the view of mutual encouragement in original research. The result of their effort is the publication to which we call attention and which will be of great interest to specialists. Prof. [illegible] Loud gives a new, rigorous proof of the Binomial theorem and also develops several [illegible] properties of cubic curves. Mr. Benjamin Ives Gilman contributes a critical and scholarly review of the inductive [illegible] of Bacon, Whewell and Mill. Prof. [illegible] Cajori follows with an interesting account of a curious old mathematical text book. Prof. [illegible] Hendrickson offers a new reading of a [illegible] obscure passage in Horace and also [illegible] a plausible conjecture as to the correct [illegible] of a spurious passage in Cicero. It is a source of gratification that publications of so high merit as this should emanate from an educational institution of this state, and Colorado college is to be congratulated.

The statue of Greeley, by Ward, which was unveiled last Saturday, is one of the noblest works of art of the kind in this country. The Tribune naturally has the best description of the monument and the exercises. In an editorial which has excellent features, it spoiled all it said, in speaking of the present Tribune building as another monument and the Tribune itself as a still further monument. It says: "Every number has worn the impress of his lofty purpose and loyalty to truth." We can hardly conceive of a person more disgusted than Mr. Greeley if he were to come back to earth and read the New York Tribune. Its gross unfairness, its distortion of fact, its petty trifling with truth, would all be a terrible shock to Mr. Greeley. Not the least of Mr. Greeley's good qualities was that he was thoroughly honest in his opinions. He may sometimes have been narrow, but he never was insincere. His whole paper bore a strong impress during his lifetime of his simple, honest, frank nature, and however much opponents might disagree with the Tribune's editorial opinions, they always had respect for them. How different it is now as regards the paper founded by Horace Greeley.

A pension bill has just been passed by the house and the senate giving Mrs. Mary B. Cushing, of St. Joseph, Missouri, a pension of fifty dollars a month. Mrs. Cushing is called the "Missouri Cornelia," though Missouri was not the birth-place of her brave sons, but happens to be now the home of their mother. Mrs. Cushing had the honor of being the mother of three very brave boys who all distinguished themselves in services to their country. Lieutenant Alonzo H. Cushing, of the Fourth artillery, was killed at Gettysburg. His battery was at the point to which the Confederate fire converged before the great Pickett charge of July 3rd. Every gun was disabled but one. Every officer had been [illegible]. Cushing himself was mortally wounded in both thighs. As Pickett's [illegible] came up close to his line he called out to Webb, who was then commanding at this point, "I will give them one more shot. Good bye." He then ran his last serviceable gun down to the [illegible] and expired almost at the same instant. Another son was Commander A. B. Cushing, whose daring in sinking the [illegible] will be forever remembered as one of the most brilliant achievements of our navy. For his gallant [illegible] he five times received a personal [illegible] from the secretary of the navy. Young Cushing died at the age of thirty two, soon after the war. A third son, Howard B. Cushing, was in the Third U. S. cavalry and was killed in battle with the Indians, in Arizona, in 1871. The nation can scarcely honor too much the mother of these three sons. The only criticism to be made about the pension is that it is too small.

The New York World tells rather a remarkable story about a Miss Ellen Buckley. This young woman had been supporting for many years her mother and an insane sister. The mother died quite recently and then the chief care was the sister. This insane sister saw a parade under the auspices of St. Rocco's society and also attended the feast at the Church of St. Joachim. When she saw the collection taken up she went home and took all of the savings of her sister, amounting to about seven hundred and forty dollars, and ran back to the church and put them on the plate. This caused a great deal of enthusiasm among the members of St. Rocco's society, who resolved to commemorate the event appropriately. Accordingly fireworks were purchased, a band engaged, a feast was served, and everything went merrily. A good portion of this seven hundred and forty dollars was expended in the commemoration. When Miss Ellen Buckley discovered what had become of the money she had saved so carefully to protect her mother, her sister and herself in case she was unable to earn her living, she was very angry and went to the society and demanded it. She was told it could not be all returned as much of it had been expended in the commemoration services. She then went to Mgr. Preston who wrote a letter directing the president of St. Rocco's society to return the seven hundred and forty dollars to Miss Buckley. But the president says he cannot do it because he has not got it. Meanwhile Miss Buckley has neglected her work in trying to get her money back again, and is likely to lose her situation.

ICE CREAM POISONING.

Juliet Corson Writes on a Subject of Interest to All.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Not a week passes, from May to November, that the newspapers do not tell of ice cream poisoning, and frequently winter festivals are changed into occasions of anxiety more or less prolonged, I was about to say, according to the carelessness of the persons providing the refreshments. Because there is one chance in fifty that the cause of the trouble may not be traced to human agency I will restrain the indignation that my readers will admit is very natural when they have reflected upon my statements. Let me say here, and with emphasis, that these same statements are the plain, unvarnished truth, not in the least degree colored for the purpose of making an interesting or striking piece of reading. Usually it is not necessary to make any such preface to my propositions; either they are self evident or my readers are willing, from past experience, to take upon trust whatever I may say. But the present subject is very serious, and should be cautiously treated, attentively read and well remembered.

Not only the manufacturers of ice cream and cream cakes or puffs, but caterers and confectioners who supply them to consumers, are concerned. What I have to say is important to every one who handles butter, cheese, cream in any combination, or any article of food into the composition of which milk enters, and he or she will do only his or her duty by paying the closest attention to this entire article. It is not to read in bits and be forgotten. Every sentence is sound and valuable, since neglect of the conditions defined always causes illness and sometimes death.

Chemical analysis instituted in consequence of the alarming illness of a number of persons who had eaten of some special food has developed the fact that a virulent poison is formed in milk at certain stages after it has been drawn from the cow. The same poison, which is called tyrotoxicon, is found in milk, cream and cheese, in oysters stewed with milk, and in cream puffs or Boston cream cakes. It has been found in perfectly sweet milk which has not been properly cooled, in the mixture of fresh, sweet milk and that which is a day old, and in cream under similar conditions. When vessels that have contained milk have not been properly cleansed, and other fresh milk or cream is put into them, some poisonous germs are communicated more or less dangerous to health. The only safeguard is the washing in boiling water of all vessels used in milking, straining, cooling and keeping milk and cream, and in its transportation.

In vessels of all kinds containing milk which are kept in damp, ill ventilated places the poisonous elements will develop with frightful rapidity, a single hour being sufficient time to change the innocent milk with the so called ptomaines, or poisons of putrefaction. These poisons are not like the hereditary injurious conditions of "blue milk," which does not seem to be absolutely poisonous, and the active germs of tuberculosis, against which boiling is a safeguard. They can develop in boiled milk if it is placed in a badly washed utensil. The whole question settles itself into the nutshell of cleanliness and temperature. Put the milk in good block tin vessels and keep it in a cool, dry atmosphere. This touches the important question of keeping all articles of food free from moisture and warmth, since moisture combined with warmth is the most prolific generator of all kinds of fermentation and mold. To become convinced of this fact make a sacrifice of a potato the next time some are boiled. Let it stand in the temperature of a warm kitchen where it is damp; in a few hours it will be covered with a slight indication of slime; allow this to remain undisturbed over night, and a fine, soft growth of mold will appear, which can be seen to develop under a good microscope. As the potato will be obviously unfit to eat, the lesson will be useful beyond comparison with words. But, remember the conditions, heat and moisture; a dry heat would have a different effect.

The fermentation which results in mold is quite different to the condition favorable to the formation either of ptomaines or tyrotoxicon, as the special milk and cheese poisons are defined, both of which seem to result from the careless treatment of milk receptacles. So serious has this mischief become that the state health boards are discussing the legalized inspection of all milk and cheese factories and depots. It's even proposed to limit the kind of vessel in which milk may be transported with safety to block tin or porcelain lined cans. The use of copper vessels for holding or cooking milk will probably be forbidden, especially for making ice cream and cream cakes, because unless they are kept scrupulously clean the metallic poison, verdigris, is apt to form upon them. In making French ice cream, which is composed largely of cream and eggs, and the pastry cook's cream, made of milk, eggs, butter and sugar, fatty acids are developed, which coming in contact with copper not perfectly clean cause the formation of verdigris, an active metallic poison. Vanilla essence sometimes poisons because the oil of the cashew nut, used to preserve the bean, gives rise to symptoms similar to those resulting from the internal use of croton oil. The poisonous coloring matters are generally metallic.

The symptoms of metallic and tyrotoxic poisons are so similar that an antidote should be used applicable to both. The symptoms are pain in the head and back, griping pain in the stomach and bowels, thirst, nausea. The antidote is copious draughts of lukewarm water containing salt or mustard, as an emetic. A physician should be called in at once. If there is delay any gastro-enteric irritation may be allayed by the use of [illegible] and some such antiphlogistic [illegible] should be employed.

Fifty First Congress.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, September 24. Frye offered a concurrent resolution (agreed to) directing the secretaries of state, treasury, war and navy to examine the report and recommendation of the international marine conference of February 9, and prepare and submit to congress bills for enactment into law of such recommendations as far as they apply to their respective departments and meet their approval.

The senate then preceded to the consideration of bills on the calendar unobjected to. Among the bills passed was the senate bill in recognition of the merits and service of Chief Engineer George Wallace Melville, and other officers and men of the Jeannette Arctic expedition. It provides for an advance of Melville one grade and for a medal to each survivor and heirs of the dead.

Hale introduced a joint resolution, which went over without action, authorizing the secretary of the navy to purchase at his discretion, nickel ore or nickel matte, to be used in the manufacture of nickel steel armor plating, armor piercing projectiles, and other naval objects, appropriating $1,000,000 for the purpose.

The senate passed, 45 to 6, its substitute for the house bill to define and regulate the jurisdiction of courts of the United States.

The senate resumed consideration of the house bill (with senate substitute) to define and regulate the jurisdiction of the courts of the United States, and it was passed: yeas 45, nays 6 Messrs. Barbour, Bate, Blackburn, Blodgett, Harris, and Vest.

A conference was asked, and Messrs. Evarts, Hoar and Pugh were appointed conferees on the part of the senate.

Cullom stated that Edmunds had gone home in consequence of illness and that he had had a note from him saying that he would return before the adjournment of this session if his health would permit him.

The senate resumed consideration of the bill (which was partially discussed some weeks ago) to establish a United States land court and to provide for the settlement of private land claims in certain states and territories.

Mr. Blair moved to postpone its consideration in order to take up the house bill for the adjustment of wages of labor under the eight-hour law, stating that there were five of these important labor bills on the calendar, and that they should be disposed of before the close of to day's session, because he had been informed that the conference report on the tariff bill would be presented tomorrow.

Pending discussion of the bill, Mr. Hale's joint resolution appropriating a million dollars for the purchase of nickel for the navy department was taken from the table and referred to the committee on naval affairs.

The senate bill to pay to the personal representatives of Captain John Ericsson $13,330, found due to him by decree of the court of claims in 1887, was passed. The land court bill went over without action and after an executive session, the senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

Miller, of South Carolina, who was yesterday declared elected from the Seventh South Carolina district, appeared and took the oath.

The committee on foreign affairs reported a resolution calling on the president for information relative to the killing of General Barrundia.

McCreary, of Kentucky, strenuously advocated the resolution. The resolution was adopted.

Stewart, of Vermont, from the committee on judiciary, reported the following:

The house deeming it a high duty that the utmost courtesy and decorum demanded by parliamentary law and precedent should make the mutual relations of the two houses of congress, does hereby express its disapproval of the unparliamentary language used by Hon. Robert P. Kennedy, representative from the state of Ohio, in his speech delivered on the floor of the house on the third day of September, 1890, and published in the Congressional Record of September 14, 1890; and considering it impracticable to separate the unparliamentary portions of said speech from such parts thereof as may be parliamentary, therefore

Resolved, That the public printer be directed to exclude from the permanent Congressional Record the entire speech of Hon. Robert P. Kennedy in the first resolution mentioned.

Mr. Kennedy requested to be heard in his own behalf. At first there was a disposition shown to refuse him this request, but after Gates, of Alabama, said that while he concurred in the report, he thought that the gentleman should be heard, and after Boutelle, of Maine, declared that it would be an outrage to deny him the request, Kennedy was accorded the floor for 20 minutes.

Kennedy said he had asked the committee on judiciary to let his speech appear in the Record entire or to strike it out entire. He was willing to stand before the people of America on that speech, believing that the people of this country, in their first judgment and in their second judgment would approve the words he had uttered.

Mr. Stewart then demanded the previous question. Despite Mr. Boutelle's protest that the house could not afford to have gag law, the previous question was ordered; yeas 141, nays 86. The resolution was then adopted; yeas 150, nays 36.

The house then went into committee of the whole (Mr. Allen, of Michigan, in the chair) on the senate amendments to the deficiency bill. The French spoliation claims amendment was non concurred in.

The committee then arose and a conference was ordered.

The senate bills granting a pension of $2000 a year to the widows of Generals Fremont and Crook were passed.

On motion of Mr. Townsend of Colorado, the senate bill was passed (with an amendment including the Pagosa Springs reservation) opening to homestead settlement the old Fort Lyon military reservation in Colorado.

Working for the Anarchists.

CHICAGO, September 24. Another legal step toward the release of the anarchists now confined in the penitentiary was taken in the federal court to-day in the shape of an application for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Michael Schwab. Should Schwab prove successful in his application, then Neebe and Fielden will follow with similar petitions. Technical omissions in the wording of the process upon which Schwab is held at Joliet and the point that contrary to the law he was not present, either in person or by counsel, when sentence was affirmed by the supreme court of Illinois, form the basis of the petition for habeas corpus. Judge Gresham, to whom the petition was presented, issued a rule on Attorney General Hunt to show cause by Monday why the writ prayed for should not issue.

Davitt's Disclosures.

LONDON, September 24. Michael Davitt will begin in his paper, The Labor World, to morrow, a series of disclosures to the effect that the political events which began with the dynamite explosions at the houses of parliament, the Nelson column in Trafalgar square, and the underground railway, and ended with the Parnellite commission, were the result of a conspiracy on the part of the government to connect Parnell with these outrages and so destroy him and his movement together.

Davitt goes to the root of the matter, proceeding to divulge the secret story of the great dynamite conspiracy. Mr. Davitt says: "We shall establish by indisputable evidence the charges we now make, namely, that James McDermott, of Brooklyn, N. Y., organized the dynamite plots in Cork and Liverpool in the year 1883, by the aid of money furnished him by the British consul general of New York and the officials in Dublin castle, and that McDermott supplied the dynamite to his dupes Featherstone, Dealy and others, and then reporting them to the police, using the dynamite in their possession as proof of their guilt; that McDermott by his own confession and over his own signature admitted that he was cognizant and a party to the outrages that occurred in London; that French, the head of the Irish constabulary, was involved with McDermott in the dynamite scheme in Ireland; that McDermott sent N. Y. K. to Montreal in 1883 with the knowledge and consent of the British consul, to organize a dynamite plot in that city."

Railroad Conference.

CHICAGO, September 24. The Journal says General Managers Stubbs, of the Southern Pacific, and Mellen, of the Union Pacific, have been holding mysterious conferences here for two days They decline to make known the object, but among railroad men it is generally believed they are trying to patch up the differences between their roads over connections at Ogden.

Changed his Plea.

TROY, N. Y., September 24.—The Rensselaer court of session was crowded this morning to hear sentence imposed on Arthur Buett, who pleaded guilty yesterday to misplacing a switch on the Hudson River railway. The crowd was disappointed, for Buett withdrew his former plea and pleaded not guilty. He was assigned counsel and will be tried to morrow.

For the Boulder Tournament.

The members of the fire department who intend to take part in the coming tournament at Boulder are hard at work training for the races both night and morning. They are taking great interest in the work and are turning out in good shape under their trainers, Austin Banks and Lieut. S. W. Vidler. There are seventeen men training as follows: Currie, Tebbitts, Schneider and Kelley of the France hose; Hart, Hillis, Goddard, Parsons, Corcoran and Helmer of the Jacksons; Doyle, Duncan, Byrne, Bancroft and Steele of the Hooks, and McReynolds and Thompson of the Crowells.

The idea of putting a hook and ladder team in the field has been entirely abandoned and the hose contests will be the only ones entered for. The conditions governing these races are entirely different from those of a few years ago. Then the men had to run 500 feet before attaching to the plug and then reel off 200 feet of hose. This year they run 400 feet only and reel off 200 feet of hose, making 600 feet altogether. There will be a good many people going from here to the tournament besides the teams The men are making some very good records in their daily runs and stand a good chance of bringing back two or three of the valuable prizes offered.

A Colorado Springs Enterprise.

The Globe-Democrat of September 22 had the following special despatch:

JOPLIN, Mo., September 21. Frye & Sons have sold the west 80 acres of the Ruby tract. The purchasers are Captain Ainslt and others, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and R. C. Parsons, jr., of Cleveland, O. They are men of means and it is their intention to put good machinery upon the land and develop it.

What It Suggested.

Mr. Nice (to stranger, whose language has annoyed him) Look here, sir, I want you to use better language in the presence of these ladies! Your talk is abominable!

Stranger Is that so? Well, I'll talk just as I want! My language is all right, an' all I do is to call a spade a spade.

Mr. Nice Indeed! I should imagine that you would call it a bloody shovel!—Lawrence American

The Durango Evening Tribune is dead from lack of support. The Herald says that it's all the town can do to support it yet awhile.

The Fort Collins Courier has discarded its patent insides and appears to much better advantage.

The first fall tournament of the Denver Cyclers' union will occur October 11 and 12 in the new Sportsman's park on South Broadway. A grand illuminated parade and reception has been arranged for Friday evening, October 10.

The following telegrams remain undelivered at the Western Union: C. R. Griffiths and C E Eaton.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Helm & Kopf among the business locals, in which they refer to their new consignment of fruit.

The Matt France Hose company held a meeting last night and decided to accept their new hose cart, over which there has been considerable discussion. They now have the handsomest cart in the fire department.

Mr. William B. Gross, representing the celebrated actor Robert Mantell, who will appear at our opera house a week from Saturday, is in the city and made a pleasant call at the GAZETTE office. He will go up the Peak via Cascade to day.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday by the county clerk to Evan T. Jenkins and Miss Margaret J. Scott, both of Colorado Springs, and to H S Van Cleave, of Colorado Springs and Miss Nannie Hannon, of St. Joseph, Mo.

Work was begun yesterday on moving the old Grand View hotel to the site now occupied by the Catholic church on the corner of Vermijo and Cascade avenues The church will be swung around so as to face on Vermijo and will have plenty of room for the other building.

A Mothers' meeting will be held this afternoon at 317 East Willamette avenue to which all mothers interested are invited The subject to be discussed will be "Temperance Training in the Home," led by Mrs. Jenks, superintendent of the Mothers' meetings for the North W. C. T. U.

The lecture to be given this evening at the First Congregational church on "The Yankee," by Rev. James B. Gregg, will undoubtedly be one of the most interesting lectures of the season. It pictures the typical Yankee in his true home character with his dry wit and inborn honesty. Admission 25 cents.

A very able lecture was delivered at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening by Mrs. Charles E Walker, of Colorado Springs, on the subject of "Home [illegible]" The attendance was large and the congregation gave the closest attention to the interesting and instructive lecture. [Salida Mail.

The police yesterday arrested a middle aged man and woman who were walking the streets badly intoxicated. The woman seems to be almost crazy and sings and spouts poetry and declamations all the time. She is not alone in the city jail for Miss Della Phillips is again behind the bars for disturbing the peace.

In the window of the Chicago bakery is a very fine exhibit of candies of all kinds made at that establishment. The chief attraction, however, is a log house in the centre, about 18 inches high and made entirely of candy, even to the chimney and the fence around it. It was constructed by the confectioner in charge of that branch of the bakery.

Colorado college opened yesterday with a very large attendance. The entire day was spent in enrolling pupils and the work was not finished last night, so it is impossible to state the entire number as yet, although it will be about double the best record previous to this year. An especial feature is the large number of young ladies enrolled in both the collegiate and preparatory departments.

Coroner Marlow was summoned yesterday to Elsmere to investigate the death of a section hand on the Rock Island named Patrick Dillon, who was found dead in his bed in the morning It appeared that Dillon had been on a violent spree ever since last week Wednesday, when he received his pay. He had been sick and disease and alcohol together finished him. The coroner brought the body to this city, where it will be buried by the county. No inquest was deemed necessary.

Mr. H. J. Barber, of the Lincoln school, will deliver the first of a series of popular science illustrated lectures at the Y. M. C. A. hall, No 16 S Tejon street, this evening. The subject will be brilliantly illustrated by a number of rare and costly experiments He will also construct and explain a mercurial barometer. This will be the first of a series of twelve lectures, combining physiology, geology and foreign travel. The admission will be $1 for the course or 15 cents for a single ticket. Children below the seventh grade half price, and members of the Y. M. C. A. free.

Coroner Marlow yesterday received a telegram from a man named Moore in Denver, saying that the description of the man found dead near Palmer Lake Tuesday tallied with that of his brother, and he asked that a fuller description be sent up. He then sent a friend of his brother's, named Harry Shepard, down to see if it was he, and he immediately upon viewing the body pronounced it that of David Moore, a boss painter of Denver. It seems that the dead man was ill all last week and confined to his bed. Sunday his brother went out to get some quinine capsules for him but when he returned his brother was gone. He looked for him all day Monday and on Tuesday put the matter in the hands of the Denver police. The deceased was an unmarried young man of good habits and it is thought that he had considerable money when he left Denver. The engineer of Rio Grande train No. 7 reported that three men crowded upon the blind baggage at Palmer Lake when the train left there about 1.40, and he may have been one of them. The people at Palmer Lake [illegible] that he was robbed and thrown from the train. Coroner Marlow decided to hold an inquest and impaneled [illegible] A H.
